There are many resources to learn more about Jewish end of life. We've pulled some of our favorite websites and resources that offer a comprehensive and pluralistic approach:

Having a Conversation:

The Death Deck: A game that lets you explore a topic we're all obsessed with but often afraid to discuss.
Death Over Dinner: A resource to host a dinner party to talk about death.

Rituals and Practices:

Jewish Funeral and Burial: Learn more about what composes a Jewish funeral
Jewish Death and Mourning 101: A comprehensive overview of Jewish end-of-life practices

Mourning:

Stages of Mourning: An explanation of Jewish periods of mourning
Shiva.com: Comprehensive resource for Jewish mourning

Grief and Loss:

Kaddish Club: Lab/Shul hosts a weekly Mourner's Kaddish phone call to honor loved ones with a community of like minded souls.
The Dinner Party: The Dinner Party is a US-based community for people between the ages of 21-45, who have experienced the loss of parents, partners, siblings, children, other family members, and close friends.